INTRODUCTION

American Council for Construction Education (ACCE) is a 501(c)(3) private non-profit corporation. The mission of ACCE is to be a leading global advocate of quality construction education and to promote, support, and accredit quality construction education programs. The primary goal is the promotion and continued improvement of postsecondary construction education. Specifically, ACCE's primary focus is to accredit construction education programs in colleges and universities that request its evaluation and meet its standards and criteria.

ACCE was organized in 1974 by the American Institute of Constructors (AIC), the constructor's professional organization, and the Associated Schools of Construction (ASC). ACCE enjoys the support of these two associations and many North American building and contracting associations and academic Institutions seeking to satisfy the needs for highly qualified entry-level management personnel in the construction profession. We have started to plan our celebration for our 50th anniversary! More details will be provided during the next academic year.

The Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA), based in Washington, DC, provides oversight of ACCE as the accrediting agency for the four-year baccalaureate degree, two-year associate degree, and master's degree programs in construction science, construction management, and construction technology programs. In October 2022, CHEA approved their recognition of ACCE for seven more years. In July 2023, CHEA approved a new Scope of Services for ACCE. This change will allow ACCE to provide accreditation services for single-purpose Institutions and international construction degree programs.

Our Accreditation Committee and Visiting Teams were busy this past year. Based on their efforts and recommendations, the ACCE Board of Trustees granted initial seven-year accreditation to five new construction degree programs, with another nine receiving reaccreditation for seven years. There are now 99 ACCE accredited degree programs in the United States and Canada.

Based on the requests from our industry constituents, ACCE offers a Professional Development Certification (PDC) Program. This program aims to recognize industry-related professional development training provided by educational institutions, industry associations, and private companies that meet ACCE criteria for certification. There are now ten ACCE certified professional development programs.

Also, based on our industry requests, ACCE has recently completed the development, implementation, and execution of an accreditation process for Construction Workforce Education (CWE) programs, otherwise known as skilled workforce training, conducted by trade unions, colleges and universities, industry associations, and private industry organizations. The Denver-based Western States College of Construction and its five trade programs are the first groups of ACCE-accredited workforce training programs. Two additional workforce training centers have applied for their candidacy for accreditation. They are the Mid-America Council of Carpenters Apprenticeship and Training Program in Pekin, IL, and the Nor-Cal Carpenters Training in Pleasanton, CA.

ACCE has developed reciprocal agreements with the National Board for Construction Management Accreditation (NBCMA) of the People's Republic of China and The Chartered Institute of Builders (CIOB) in the United Kingdom. These agreements recognize university degree programs accredited by NBCMA and CIOB as equivalent to Baccalaureate Degree Programs or Associate Degree Programs accredited by ACCE and the same equivalency for NBCMA and CIOB accredited Degree Programs. This past year, we renewed our agreement with CIOB. In addition, we have revised our Standards and Criteria to serve our international partners better so that ACCE can accredit them.

By working together under the aegis of ACCE, representatives of the entire construction community and the public at large, construction educators and constructors establish and maintain standards and criteria for accreditation, provide guidance to those seeking to achieve accredited status, and carry out the accreditation and reaccreditation processes. In doing so, ACCE serves potential students' interests by helping them identify Institutions and Construction Degree Programs that offer quality education in construction management and technology. It also serves the industry's interests by enabling employers to identify graduates from construction workforce education programs who, because of their hands-on education, have the potential to make lasting contributions to the industry and their profession.

Our 2022-2023 fiscal year was very successful. We look forward to our 50th year of service in the construction industry as we continue to grow our services and expand our education accreditation and certification scope.

Steve Nellis, President & CEO

Since 1974, the American Council for Construction Education has been a leading global advocate that promotes, supports, and accredits quality construction education programs.

BOARD CHAIR'S REPORT

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, it gives me great pleasure to present the ACCE Annual Report for 2023. I would like to recognize and thank all the members of ACCE for their active participation in committee meetings, both virtual and in-person, throughout the year. It is truly the dedication and time commitment of each member to support continuous improvement in the quality of construction education that enables ACCE to accomplish its mission.

ACCE continues to remain strong and is increasing our sphere of influence within our goal to ensure excellence in construction education. Our President, Steve Nellis, continues to uncover and relentlessly pursue an expanding array of opportunities for ACCE's broadened scope.

We remain grateful to the countless volunteers from industry, associations, and academia who selflessly commit their time to support shared vision and goals.

In February 2023, ACCE held its Midyear Conference successfully in Las Colinas, Texas, along with the second annual Construction Education Consortium (CEC) to pool resources from the American Institute of Constructors (AIC), National Association of Women in Construction (NAWIC) and NAWIC Education Foundation (NEF). The CEC enabled collaboration, networking, and cost-sharing for all the organizations involved.

The Midyear Conference followed the 13th Industry Advisory Board (IAB) Workshop and Meeting coordinated by ACCE's Industry Liaison Committee. Paul Mattingly led this successful event, drawing newcomers from near and far to empower industry advisory board members to become more vigorous advocates for their respective programs.

In July 2023, ACCE held a successful Annual Conference in Salt Lake City. President Steve Nellis reported that CHEA had approved the ACCE scope change request, allowing us to operate worldwide and accredit single-purpose institutions. ACCE's expanded scope enabled the first program accredited under the Construction Workforce Education Program, the Western States College of Construction (WSCC), to fulfill its goal of granting an associate degree in occupational studies. We have been informed that in August 2023, The Colorado State Division of Private Occupational Schools granted WSCC authority to grant associate of occupational studies degrees. Congratulations to WSCC!

Extraordinary support was observed for the Teaching and Learning Practitioner (TLP) Program, and we recognize Dr. Tony Lamanna for planning and delivering the training program. The ACCE Board of Trustees approved revisions to Document 103, Appendix H-A, to initiate accreditation of associate degree Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning, and Refrigeration Programs (HVACR). ACCE's new initiative to include the HVACR program (Formerly PAHRA) and efforts to bring them under ACCE's umbrella deserve support from all of us. The industry could further diversify the ACCE growth opportunities.

During the Annual ACCE Conference, the Board of Trustees elected new members, accreditation actions were voted on, and changes to the standards were discussed. Several task forces were announced to keep ACCE moving forward and growing. Many thanks to Dr. Khalid Siddiqi for leading the charge to update ACCE's Strategic Plan, which is critical to meet the challenges and changing needs of the Construction Industry. I am looking forward to the Strategic Planning Session scheduled for November 2024.

Thanks to the following committee chairs for serving during 2022-2023:

Dr. Chris Gordon – Accreditation Committee
Mr. Rogers Hunt – Awards and Scholarships Committee
Mr. Bill Good – Construction Workforce Education (CWE) Committee
Dr. Souhail Elhouar – Council of Chairs
Professor Mike Anderson, Finance Committee and ACCE Treasurer
Dr. Robert Ries – Guidance Committee
Mr. Paul Mattingly – Industry Liaison Committee
Dr. John Schaufelberger – Leadership Development Committee
Ms. Joy Svoboda – Marketing and Communications Committee
Ms. Tammy Crooks – Professional Development Committee
Dr. Chuck Berryman – Standards Committee
Dr. Al Bleakley – Training Committee

It is an exciting time for ACCE, with so many opportunities in front of us. We look forward to an even stronger 2023-2024. I remain grateful and would like to recognize the volunteers' commitment to keeping ACCE on the leading edge concerning quality construction education. I thank President Mr. Steve Nellis, Past Chair Dr. John Schaufelberger, and Vice Chair Dr. Khalid Siddiqi for their continued patience, support, and mentoring to provide ACCE with a brighter future.

Charlie Roesset
ACCE Board Chair

ACCE serves the interest of potential students by helping them identify institutions and programs that offer quality education in construction. Students graduating from ACCE accredited programs are better prepared to enter the construction industry

CONSTRUCTION WORKFORCE EDUCATION ACCREDITATION

In 2021, ACCE expanded its mission to include accreditation of Construction Workforce Education Programs which combine on-the-job work experience with classroom study to teach construction-related skills, methods, terminology, and other pedagogical topics to individuals to enhance their ability to perform construction-related work in a professional, safe, and quality manner.

In early 2020, a proposal was submitted by the Rocky Mountain Mechanical Contractors' Association (RMMCA) for ACCE to include workforce education programs in their accreditation process. At the 2020 Annual Meeting, the ACCE Board of Trustees established the Construction Workforce Education (CWE) Committee with the goal of developing an accreditation process for construction workforce programs, such as apprenticeship programs, to recognize the importance of those programs in the realm of construction education. During 2020 and 2021, these standards, with an initial focus on Registered Apprenticeship Programs (RAPs), were created and approved. The Western States College of Construction (WSCC) and their Registered Apprenticeship Programs were the first pilot program to test the new standards. The site visit occurred in the Fall of 2021 and the Board accepted the recommendation of the visiting team to accredit WSCC and its RAPs in December 2021.

There are a variety of Construction Workforce Education Programs. To enter this space, the Construction Workforce Education Committee started by creating standards for accrediting apprenticeship Institutions that have one or more RAPs in good standing with the US Department of Labor Office of Apprenticeship (OA).

ACCE hopes to expand the accreditation of Construction Workforce Education Programs beyond RAPs.

ACCREDITED CWE PROGRAMS

Following a rigorous process and for the first time in the history of ACCE, the Western States College of Construction (WSSC) has received accreditation for apprenticeships in skilled trades. With eight campuses across Colorado and Wyoming, WSSC provides the first step for individuals seeking a fulfilling and life-long career. Offerings include on the job training and certification in electrical, HVAC, pipefitting, plumbing and sheet metal.

WSSC's Apprenticeship Programs are administered in accordance with The Fitzgerald Act of 1937, also known as the National Apprenticeship Act. The regulations under the Act governing apprenticeship programs, the Equal Employment Opportunity guidance and selection procedures, are documented in the U.S. Code of Federal Regulations at Title 29, CFR Parts 29 & 30. WSSC Apprenticeship Programs are Joint Apprenticeship Training Programs jointly administered by construction employers and construction labor unions.

WSSC's mission is to provide education beyond the secondary level. Each of their Programs is a Registered Apprenticeship Program (RAP) in good standing with the US Department of Labor as outlined in 29 CFR Part 29. WSSC's RAPs have been serving the local population since 1988.

WSSC was formed through a unique collaboration of the Rocky Mountain Mechanical Contractors Association, Rocky Mountain Chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association, the United Association of Plumbers, Fitters, Welders, and Service Technicians, the National Electrical Contractors Association, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the Sheet Metal and Air Conditioning Contractors of North America Colorado Chapter, National Association, and the International Association of Sheet Metal, Air, Rail & Transportation Workers and construction contracting companies.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

CERTIFICATION PROGRAM

As part of its mission to be a leading global advocate of quality construction education, ACCE offers a Professional Development Certification Program. The purpose of the program is to recognize industry-related professional development programs offered by Educational Institutions, industry associations, and private companies that meet ACCE criteria for certification. Certification standards and application procedures can be found on the Professional Development Certification page of the ACCE website.
